Mr. Meredith on Pensioning Nurses. In the debate in Congress last Tuesday on the bill to pension nurses, Mr.

Meredith said The ladies in my section never stopped to inquire whether a man wore the olue or the gray when they came to minister to him, when he was wound. ed, sick, or dying, just as the English people do not stop now, in writing the history of that country, to inquire whether a man fought under the white or the red rose. It was the mercy which took possession of their hearts, it was the sympathy they had for suffering humanity; and not one of those ladies has ever come here and offered a bill asking to be paid for what she did during those trying days of 1861-'65. But it is not for them that I speak. It is for my people, who pay the taxes of country. It is to stop, if I can, the influx which is flowing like a mighty sea in the direction of pensions, and which will envelop us in a gulf of disaster if this matter is not stopped. I say to you in all earnestness that it will be impossible for this government, within the next ten years, to meet the pen-sions of this country, paid simply to the soldiers of the country; and there are hundreds of thousands of cases now pending, in addition to the enormous sums that we have to pay under the laws as they exist. I beg you, my fel-low members, in God's name, if you want to be generous, be generous out of your own funds; but I do beg of you, for the sake of this government, I do beg of you, for the sake of the farmers whom you represent, for the sake of government by any set of people upon the face of the earth.

I ask you gentleman to meet the reonsibilities which rest upon you today; I ask you, when you go to your homes, how you will explain to your people that you are not only willing— which nobody objects to—to pension those who were really soldiers in the last war, though thousands of bounty jumpers come in who are not entitled to one cent—how will you explain that you are willing to impose these further burdens upon the people? I appreciate, I honor, and I respect the true soldier who was wounded in the defense of his country. It is the highest duty that the government can perform to see that I have no regard and no sympathy for the man who enlisted for a bounty, and who was not injured, who comes in under the pension laws; and I do beg of you not to extend the laws beyond the capacity of this government to meet them or to place upon the pension rolls people who were not in the army, who went into the service for a particular sum agreed upon at the time, and who received their pay.

SPURRED ON BY LOVE.-After a patient, weary search, extending over the Western continent, and covering a SOFT PULVERIZED CRAYONPORTRAITS period of nearly 40 years, Charles Hartley, of Oswego, N. Y., a few days ago at this point ended a period in his eventful life by arresting Allen Hartley, a cousin, charged with the murder of his wife two score years ago, says an Ellenwood (B. C.) correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

The man arrested is an old resident of Ellenwood, having lived there nearly 12 years. He served two terms as mayor, and has been successful in the accumulation of a comfortable fortune. Four years ago he married a well known lady of that place. Back of it is a story ALL KINDS OF LIQUORS.

When, later, the house in which the Hartleys had lived, was being repaired, and there was found in a cemented vault beneath it the skeleton of Agnes Hartley, the town went mad. But the murderer was gone and there was no trace. Charles Hartley swore to hunt him down if it took a lifetime and his fortune. It required forty years of one and nearly as many thousand dollars of other, but success at last rewarded the long search.
